b) one
c) each
d) both
e) take
f) period
g) we
h) often
i) although/though
j) contribute

3. (a)

(i)

- The lines are simple and the language is not difficult – easy to read and remember.
- There is regular repetition of words at regular predictable parts of the poem. For example stanzas, two, three and four start with the word “And” and all the lines of stanza one with ‘T’.
- The stanzas are of the same size; all have four lines.
- The lines are basically of the same length.

These characteristics give the poem a song-like pattern to which a performer can impose a tune (Any two (2) well explained points 2(two) marks each = Total 4 marks).

(ii) The rhyme scheme in all four stanzas is aabbccddeeffgghh. In stanza one we have ‘friend/end’ and foe/grow; in stanza two ‘fears/tears and ‘smiles/wiles; in stanza three ‘night/bright’ and ‘shine/mine’; in stanza four stole/pole’ and ‘see/tree’. (3 marks)

(iii) In a celebratory tone. The persona has been plotting to kill the enemy for a long time and now his plans have borne fruit\ a smile to show contentment. It could be said in a falling or rising intonation (low-falling intonation suggests both the end of the poem and the sad message of death). Deliberate slow pace

(iv) Use of gesture-e.g. outstretched hands to show how the foe stretched beneath the tree (2 marks, 1 mark for identification, and 1 mark for illustration/explanation)

(Give reasons from the text to qualify the answers)

3. (b) Picking out odd vowel sound. (6 marks)

- (i) ship;
- (ii) put;
- (iii) hard;
- (iv) port
- (v) sit
- (vi) good

3. (c)
